CHAPTER 1 QUEUE- AND RENTAL TERMS

Academic requirement

1.1 Housing applicants and tenants at SNB must be active university or college students in Lund (study requirement).

1.2 The study requirement is met by housing applicants who have been admitted to studies of at least 30 higher education credits per semester (100%) in Lund and by tenants who conduct studies of at least 22.5 credits (75%) per semester in Lund. Doctoral students must be able to present an activity level of at least 50% per semester.

The study requirement is also met by those who hold a temporary full-time remunerated position of trust within Smålands Nation.

1.3 If the study requirement is not met, which is continuously checked by SNB, the housing applicant loses the opportunity to rent accommodation and the existing tenant is terminated from their home.

Exemption from the study and membership requirement

1.4 General exemption from the study requirement may in certain cases be granted in advance with full semesters if the applicant both before and after the exemption period fulfills or intends to fulfill the study and membership requirement.

General exemption can be granted in total for

- two (2) semesters per child for parental leave and
- two (2) semesters for studies at another university or college and
- one (1) semester for other reasons.

1.5 Upon application, a medical exemption may be granted to an individual applicant with a maximum of four (4) semesters for long-term sick leave with a completely reduced study capability. Each application for a medical exemption must be substantiated with a medical certificate stating the degree of reduced study ability and a prognosis for return to active studies.

1.6 Applications for exemptions are made in writing to SNB and must always contain information about the entire semesters for which exemptions are applied for and the reasons invoked together with documentation that certifies these.

Housing limit

1.7 In addition to the study requirement, the length of the residence period is affected by the housing limit in the rental agreement. The housing limit is personal and is activated after a total of six (6) years of residence.

Time during which any exemption from the study requirement has been utilized shall be included in the length of the period of residence.

Activation of the housing limit means that the tenant moves out.

Age limit

1.8 Housing applicants must have reached an age of no more than 35 years when signing a lease agreement for corridor housing.
